

White-tailed Deer: Odocoileus virginianus

Male deer, called bucks, are easily recognizable in the summer and fall due to their prominent set of antlers, which grow annually and fall off each winter.

Female deer, called does, give birth to 1-3 young at a time, usually in May or June and after a gestation period of seven months. Young deer, called fawns, are equipped with a reddish-brown coat with white spots that helps them blend in with the forest.
