

English 492/592

Introduction to Literary and Technical Editing

Dr. Jack Bedell

Office: Mims 215

Phone: 985-549-5022

email: jbedell@selu.edu

Professor of English
Coordinator, Programs
in Creative Writing
Editor/Director,
Louisiana Literature

Interested in the publishing industry? English 492/592 is the course for you. Get hands-on experience editing texts both online and in print. Students will also learn proofreading and copyediting procedures with an opportunity to design, lay out, and produce a live editing project.

- Understand the decision-making processes that determine what is published and how it's produced
- Be able to use proofreading and copyediting terminology [and symbols]
- Be able to edit copy to specifications, online and under deadline
- Understand the ethical dilemmas faced by editors
- Use proofreader's and copyeditor's marks;
- Edit technical documentation and formats